[illegible]This image shows a blank sheet of cream-colored paper designed for handwriting practice. It features two identical sets of horizontal ruling lines. Each set consists of a solid grey line at the top and a dashed grey line below it, creating a space for writing. The first set of lines is located near the top of the page, and the second set is located near the bottom. The central area between these two sets of lines is completely blank, providing ample space for practice.
